During a recent defense exposition in London, England, Thrustmaster executives were honored by a visit from Barbara Stephenson, Deputy Chief of Mission from the U.S. Trade Commission attached to the U.S. Embassy in London. “Thrustmaster of Texas is truly a U.S. business success story as exports account for over 80% of our sales,” explained Kendall Baudoin, Thrustmaster’s sales manager of military and government accounts. “This clearly demonstrates that the world has embraced the quality and craftsmanship of Thrustmaster marine propulsion equipment.”
